In the British House of Commons on the 25th ult, the caths Jewish disabilities) bill was taken up for a third reading. The Marquis of Blandford moved that the bill be read that day six months, but, after some feeble opposition from a portion of the Roman Catholics and others, it was ordered to a third reading, and passed by a vote of 291 to 168. The bill now goes to the House of Lords, and a presumption is abroad that there has been sufficient modification in the views of some of the peers to render it probable that the measure may pass that body.

Mr. Low announced that the projected bill to abolish the "passing tolls" on shipping would not be brought forward during the present session of Parliament.

The work of shipping the submarine telegraph cable on board the frigate Niagara was expected to be commenced about the 29th of June. The American Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool had invited Captain Hudson and the officers of the Niagara to a dinner. The invitation had been accepted, but, pending the expected arrival of the United States steamer Susquehanna in the Mersey, no day had been fixed upon for the banquet.

The annual commemoration of the Oxford Universities took place on the 24th of June, and amongst others who were introduced for degrees was Mr. Dallas, the American minister, whose reception by the graduates is said to have been somewhat equivocal, "as if the body doubted the friendly disposition of President Buchanan, and disliked what they construed into approval of a pro-slavery administration."

The London Star says that there is at length a prospect of some public movement being attempted in favor of parliamentary reform, a considerable number of leading reformers having held a meeting and taken the preliminary steps to bring the matter before the public.

Advices from Gibraliar to the 16th of June report the arrival there of the American barque Nevada, having on board a large gun, presented by the city of Boston to Sardinia, for the fortress of Alessandria—being the first of one hundred guns to be raised by public subscription in different cities of America.

The military display was small, being confined to about 7,000 men, comprising the crack regiments of the Crimea. In the temporary stands which had been run up there were some ten thousand spectators, while the ground was crowded with a Bense mass of people, who displayed a considerable amount of entirusiasm.

The police of Dublin had acrosted a painter named Spollen and his son for the murder of Mr. Little, the railroad cashier, which created so much sensation a few months since. The evidence is strong against the prisoners.

The election excitement in France had nearly died out. The returns from the provinces were coming in almost universally in favor of the government, the opposition having elected only five or six out of the 267 members returned. The ministerial journals generally express great satisfaction at the result, and declare that it surpasses all the hopes of the friends of the empire. On the other hand, however, the democratic party are equally loud in their expressions of satisfaction. The new elections in cases where an absolute majority was not obtained by either candidate were to take place on the 5th of July. General Cavaignae was in this predicament in Paris, while in the seven other provincial districts where he was put forward he was defeated by very large majorities.

The Paris correspondent of the London Globe says that an interview will certainly take place shortly at the baths of Toplitz between the Emperor of Austria, accompanied by M. A Berlin letter states that considerable agitation prevailed in the Elberfeld and Barmen districts, in consequence of a general strike for increased wages among the operatives employed in the cotton mills. No disorder had taken place. It was inferred that this was one of the system of strikes regarding which the police recently made a discovery.

We have an indirect and rather unreliable rumor that we have an indirect as a soldier had fired on the King of Naples at Gaeta: that the King was slightly wounded, and that the soldier destroyed himself immediately afterwards. The Naples correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says that the report is doubtless founded on the fact that the soldiers stationed at Gacta surrounded the King on one of his visits to complain of grievances in regard to the withholding of their pay; that they retired on a promise that their complaint should be considered; and that immediate orders were given for their arrest, which could not be carried out without the interposition of strong military forms.

The mutiny in the Bengal army had spread in a most alarming manner at Meerut. Two native infantry regiments had united with the third light cavalry in open revolt. After some bloodshed they had been dispersed by European troops, but they fled to Delhi, where they were joined by three more native regiments.

Delhi was in possession of the mutineers, who had massacred almost all the Europeans, without regard to age or sex, plundered the bank, and proclaimed the son of the late Mogul as King.

A certain Tipperary gentleman, whose name is too familiar for me to print, once called upon a countryman in Paris, and after ringing stoutly at the bell the door was opened by a very smartly-dressed "maid," whose grisetic cap and apron immediately seemed to pronounce her to be French. "Est Captain—est Monsieur O'Shea ici?" asked he in considerable hesitation. "Ah, sir, you're Eaglish," exclaimed the maid in a very London accent. "Yes, my little darlin'; I was asking for Captain O'Shea." "Ah, sir, you're Irish," said she, with a very significant fall of the voice. "So," he afterwards said, "my French showed that I was English, and my English that I was light." [Magaylay.]

DESTRUCTIVE CONFLAGRATION IN PORT AU PRINCE

Captain Perry, of the brig Abby & Elizabeth, which rrived at this port from Port au Prince this morning, reports that on the morning of the 12th of June, at also .30, a. m., a destructive fire broke out at Port au Prince, in an apothecary's store, which destroyed about one hundred houses and stores in the business part of the city, and property to the amount of one million of dollars Spanish. Three persons were burned to death. Our files furnish the following particulars of the conflagration: The fire broke out at half-past twelve in the apothecary's shop of M. Myrtil Bruno, on the Place Val-lière. The governor of the capital, commandant of the first division of military of the west, was at once on the spot, followed by the Ministers of the Interior, of Finance, of Commerce, and of War. The flames which enveloped the pharmacy soon spread to the neighboring houses. His Majesty, on horseback, accompanied by the Chancellor and by his staff, came on the ground at one o'clock, and remained all night, directing with great zeal and energy the efforts of the soldiers and citizens, which were not successful till about five o'clock in the morning, after the successful till about five o'clock in the morning, after the flames had destroyed the two principal façades of the quay. The attention of his Majesty was particularly turned to the preservation of the custom-house, which was filled with foreign goods, and threatened by the burning of loads of lumber which were piled on the quay. It was finally preserved by the efforts of the governor of the capital, under his Majesty's directions.

The Emperor returned to his palace at nine o'clock in the morning, accompanied by his staff and the Chancel-lor. The fire was found to have destroyed the two small islands lying between the quay, the streets of the govern-ment warehouse, the Rue Bonne Foi, and Rue Traver-sière de la Place Vallière, the island on which stood the Bonne Pharmacy, the Place Vallière, and half of the two neighboring islets. Commerce has suffered a loss of 30,000,000 Haytien dollars in goods and buildings, about ninety houses having been destroyed. During this terrible night order reigned throughout the capital.

From England, Thylor and his fellow-tayeller, Braisted, intended to set out for a summer tour in Norway, whence they would return in the autumn to Gotha, and, after wintering there, proceed to Moscow, Southern Russia, the Caucasus, and the Crimea. From this tour the trayellers will again return to Gotha, to which place Bayard Taylor is now attracted by an attachment stronger than the ties of friendship which have hitherto drawn him thither. He is, in fact, betrothed to a daughter of the astronomer Hansen. Nothing is said about the personal appearance of Taylor's intended bride; but as she is a native of Saxony, a country proverbial for its fair women, we may presume she is beautiful.

Great land speculation.—Several citizens of Cincinnati, Messirs. Tweed & Andrews, Robins & Pomeroy, and Malcolm Clark, esq., have purchased the Winnebago Indian reservation in the northern part of Minnesota, being a tract of something like 70,000 acres of the best lands in Minnesota. It was reserved by act of Congress for the Winnebago Indians, and some $200,000 was expended upon it by the government in opening farms and creeting substantial dwellings, with buildings appurtenant. The tract includes many good, though new, farms, under partial cultivation, upon which are about sixty good houses. Being vacated under proper legal authority, it was offered for sale by the land agent of Minnesota, under instructions from Washington, and was snapped up for the sum of $40,000 to $50,000 by the parties above mentioned.

MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S IMPROVED SEWING MACHINES

Familie, Manufacturers, and Others.

The Est machines combine all the improvements that have been invented. Their extensive and increasing sale, and the unanimous approval and commendation that they have received, warrant the proprietors in warmly recommending them. They have been in use sufficiently long to test them thoroughly, and have given entire satisfaction.

Among the undoubted advantages that they possess over all others, re:

1st. Beauty and simplicity of construction, and consequent freedom rom derangement and need of repairs.

2d. Unexampled case and rapidity of operation.

3d. Noiseless movement.

4th. The remarkable perfection of their stitching, and their applicatility to a variety of purposes and materials.
